The Court of Appeals has adjourned for the term, after disposing of about 500 cases during the time of the session.

Fort Boonesboro had a close call from a fire which wiped out a number of hotels just west of the James-town Exposition grounds.

Kentucky leads all other Southern States in number of manufacturing enterprises to the amount of almost $22,000,000. She has 3,734 of such enterprises.

It is estimated by the railroad people that about 700 persons from the mountain counties of Kentucky have emigrated to the newer States of the North and West since the beginning of the year.

Frankfort, Ky., June 28.—The Court of Appeals today affirmed judgment of the Clark Circuit Court awarding Mrs. James A. Brallan, widow of James Brallan, damages in the sum of $3,000 against James Hargis and Edward Callahan, of Breathitt county, on the ground that they had caused the assassination of her husband.

Newport, Ky., June 26.—George B. Crookham, a farmer near Brent, has celebrated his birthday anniversary. He is ninety-five years of age, and has occupied his present home over eighty years. He has used tobacco, both smoking and chewing over seventy-five years. His teeth are perfect, and he never had occasion to use glasses even when reading the latest plat. He has never been ill.

In the Fayette Circuit Court a white man was tried for stealing thirty cattle. He was convicted and sent to the penitentiary for one year. A negro boy who heard the testimony in this trial and the verdict, was then tried for stealing a hog. The jury gave him three years in the penitentiary. Asked if he had any remarks to make, he replied: "Wish I had stole them cattle."

The sum of $200,000 is to be raised as soon as possible by the General Association of Kentucky Baptists to erect a sanitarium in Louisville. The plan was authorized by the association, which is in session at Mayfield, and work will be begun at once soliciting funds. The plan is to issue $200,000 shares of $1 each, and no free patients will be treated. An auxiliary association will be formed to pay the expenses of indigent persons who may be ill.

Under a decision of the Court of Appeals, no grant to the bed of the Ohio river may be recorded, as the State has never provided for the occupation of the river bed as public land. The court says the General Assembly may provide for the occupation of the land, however, if it sees fit, and may grant the right to the minerals which may be found between the center of the stream and the water mark. It defines the boundaries of Kentucky as the northern low water mark.

The Kentucky Press Association has authorized the appointment of a committee, one man from each congressional district, to co-operate with the Commissioner of Agriculture and with Congressmen to renew the supply of soft woods from which pulp can be made. J. W. Meddea, of Mt. Sterling, suggested that soft wood trees can be planted and in five years be large enough for this purpose. He said that there is no doubt that soft woods are becoming scarce and the supply needs replenishing if the cost of white paper is to be kept down.

Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated To Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER.

Thank God some of us have, and others have had, an old-fashioned mother. Not a woman of the period, enameled and palated, with her great chignon, her curls and bustle; whose white, jeweled hands never have felt the clasp of baby flangers; but a dear old-fashioned, sweet-voiced mother, with eyes in which the love light shone, and brown hair threaded with silver, lying smooth upon her faded cheek. Those dear hands worn with toil, gently guided our tottering steps in childhood, and smoothed our pillows in sickness; even reaching out to us in yearning tenderness, when her sweet spirit was haptized in the pearly spray of the river. Blessed be the memory of an old-fashioned mother. It floats to us now, like the beautiful perfume of some woodland blossoms. The music of other voices may be lost but the entrancing memory of her's will echo in our souls forever. Other places will fade away and be forgotten, but her's will shine on until the light from heaven's portals shall glorify our own.

When in the fitful pauses of busy life our feet wander back to the old homestead, and crossing the well-worn threshold, standing once more in the low, quaint room, as bellowed by her presence, how the feeling of childish innocence and dependence comes over us, and we kneel down in the molten sunshine streaming through the western window—just where, long years ago, we knelt by our mother's knee, listening "Our Father." How many times when the tempter lured us on has the memory of those sacred hours, that mother's words, her faith and prayers, saved us from sin. Years have filled great drifts over between her and us, but they have not hidden from our sight the glory of her pure, unselfish love.

LOVE OF THE BEAUTIFUL.

Place a young girl under the care of kind-hearted women, and she, unconsciously to herself, grows into a graceful lady. Place a boy in the establishment of a thoroughgoing, straightforward business man, and the boy becomes a self-reliant, practical business man. Children are susceptible creatures, and circumstances, scenes and actions always impress.

As you influence them, not by arbitrary rules, nor by stern example alone, but a thousand other ways that speak through beautiful forms, pretty pictures, etc., so they will grow. Teach your children, then, to love the beautiful. Give them a corner in the garden for flowers; encourage them to put it in the shape of hanging baskets; show them where they can best view the sunset; rouse them in the morning, not with the stern "time to go to work," but with the enthusiastic "see the beautiful sunrise." Buy for them pretty pictures and encourage them to decorate their rooms in his or her childish way. Give them an inch and they will go a mile. Allow them the privilege and they will make your home beautiful.

THE ELDER SISTER.

There is no character in the home circle more useful and beautiful than a devoted elder sister who stands alight by side with the tolling mother, lighten all her cares and burdens. How beautiful the household machine, how moves on with such efficient help! Now she presides at the table in her mother's absence, always so neatly attired that it is with pride the father introduces her to his guest as "our oldest daughter." Now she takes a little troop into the garden with her and amuses them, so mother may not be disturbed in her work or her rest. Now she helps the boys with their hard lessons or reads father's paper aloud to rest his tired eyes. If mother can run away for a few days' recreation she leaves home without any anxiety, for Mary will guide her house wisely and happily in her absence. But in the sick room her presence is an especial blessing. Her hand is next to mother's own in gentleness and skill. Her sweet music can charm any pain, and brighten the weariest hours. There are elder sisters whose presence is not such a blessing in the home. Their own selfish ends and aims are the main pursuits in life, and anything that stands in the way of these is regarded with great impatience. Such daughters are no comfort to a mother's heart. Which kind of an elder sister are you in the household?

CULTIVATE GRACEFULNESS.

The chief distinction in society between the "attentions" of the thoroughly graceful gentleman, and one who simply knows the rules, is that the former pays them without attracting notice. A lady hardly realizes that anything is done for her—she only knows that the gentleman is agreeable.

Does the young man ask how he shall cultivate this unconscious gracefulness? Some men, the reader says, have the gift by nature. True—but with rare exceptions, nature declines to make her gift available without culture and care. There is but one way to cultivate the ease of which we speak. Never willingly allow an opportunity to pay a graceful attention pass without taking advantage of it. Never, we say, not even with the sister, or mother, or most intimate cousinly friend. It is a mistake to regard these things as "too formal"—they are formal only when they are awkward. There is not a single polite attention called for in society which is not appropriate at home. If a sister drops a handkerchief, do not give her an opportunity to pick it up herself—unless you wish to be constrained and slightly awkward when you are called upon to pick up a handkerchief in the drawing room. If a mother is getting into a carriage, offer her a hand, even if it is purely a matter of form.

Nor are these attentions of young men to their near relatives valuable and called for only as matters of practice. Genuine politeness demands them at home as well as in society.

FALLSBURG.

Frank Cooksey, who had been sick so long, died last Friday, and a great many of his relatives came to attend the funeral. Services were conducted by J. M. Riffe and French Rice in the Eagle's Hall. A large audience assembled to hear the funeral sermon. His remains were laid to rest in the graveyard on the hill. Young Ramey, who got his thigh broke by getting thrown from his horse here a short time ago, is in a bad condition and his leg may have to be amputated.

Mrs. H. C. Austin has been very sick for a week or two and for a while was not expected to live, but is better.

Mrs. John Shortridge is here with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. Bradley. She has to say on account of her daughter's health.

Mrs. Wiley Austin came over to see her mother-in-law, Mrs. H. C. Austin. "The roads are in such a bad condition that everybody that goes to Louisa on the 4th of July will have to go on the train or else go a-foot. I hope the Democrats will all vote for the man that got the nomination for Circuit Judge when the time comes. U. R. S.

JUDGE S. W. HAGER.

Something About the Mountain Candidate for Governor of Kentucky.

Now that the Republican party of Kentucky has acted in the matter of placing a ticket for State offices in the field, and adopted and promulgated its platform, the issues of the campaign are made, and the Democratic nominees and party leaders are ready for the contest before the people of Kentucky. In no campaign of late years have the prospects for Democratic success been more flattering, or the campaigners of the party more ready to go upon the stump as the champions of their nominees. Since making their nominations the Democrats have been impatiently awaiting the action of the opposition party, the selection of their candidates, and especially their party platform. This meaningless document, silent and a dodger on the most important question of the day in Kentucky, that of temperance and law enforcement, will put thousands of independent citizens in the Democratic columns in November. The Democratic party needs no written platform to meet it, and would not even were it more strongly written, for the Democratic platform is written on the public records of the Commonwealth, on its Executive Journal, its Assembly Acts, its Court Opinions, and in the management of its fiscal affairs for the past seven years. From these records the orators of the party will draw their inspiration in campaigning this year, and with the record put before the people of the State there can be no doubt as to the result at the polls in November. It has nothing to fear from the closest scrutiny of the public records in the matter of money expenditures, and, throwing down the gauntlet to the Republicans, it has placed at the head of its State ticket, Judge S. W. Hager, the man since 1900 has had direct charge and control of the fiscal affairs of the State government. This man, whose every political effort has been crowned with success, both at the hands of his party and the people at the polls, is to be pitted against a man, who as the Republican nominee for Governor, has never known success in a political battle, and who is known not only in his party but to all who take an interest in public affairs as a good man to carry the party banner when there is no hope of being successful in the fight.

Something of Judge Hager, the Democratic nominee for Governor and head of the State ticket, will be of especial interest to the people of the State at this time when the picture of his opponent is being heralded in the Republican press of the State. As stated above, he has the first time to know defeat in a political campaign. Coming into State politics about eight years ago from the office of County Judge of the most progressive county of Eastern Kentucky, boyd, whose fiscal affairs he made a record in managing, he easily won the party nomination for Treasurer of Kentucky. Filling that office for four years, he early attracted the attention of his associates in the other State Departments as a man of affairs, and he had not served his term before his name was being urged by those who knew his worth for the more important office of Auditor of Public Accounts. Entering that race he easily took the lead for the nomination, and added strength to the ticket upon which he was placed as the Democratic nominee. The record which he has made as Auditor is known to every business man in Kentucky who has had occasion to come in contact with him in a business way, and as the party candidate for Governor, he is most willing that his every net while in that office shall be weighed by the people in ascertaining his fitness and especial qualifications for the office of Chief Executive of the State. In contemplating him, the Democratic party feels that he has especial fitness to be chief officer of the Commonwealth because of the long service in the fiscal department which has acquainted him with every department of the government, its conditions and its needs, and because, as Governor, he will take a position at the head of the several important State Boards and Commissions, on which he has been ranking member for several years, and is in better position than any one else, certainly in better position than his Republican opponent, to carry out present policies which have so much benefitted the State.

In making the race for the Democratic nomination for Governor, Judge Hager, in a speech rendered to the Democrats before whom he was a candidate, an account of his stewardship, and he could have no better platform in a contest with the Republicans than that accounting. In that accounting he said:

"For six and one-half years I have occupied the position of a public servant, four years as Treasurer and two and one-half years as Auditor. In the course of these offices I have been a member of the Board of Valuation and Assessment. As Auditor I am Chairman of that Board. The duty of this Board is to assess all corporate interests. I have always sought, without fear or favor, to require all such interests to bear their just and due proportion of the burden of taxation, and have put forth an earnest effort to compel the corporations to come up to the full requirements of the revenue laws and to place all interests on an equal footing in the matter of taxation. The values of corporate franchises have been materially increased during my tenure in office and this has been accomplished without undue oppression of any interest. In strict compliance with the law, against which no protest can be registered. While accomplishing these results, it has always been my endeavor to so administer the responsibilities of this office as to encourage and invite capital to invest in this State, and I am pleased to note a most gratifying increase in foreign capital which is seeking and finding investment here. Should I receive the nomination and be elected to the office to which I aspire, my attitude will continue the same and as far as lies to my power, I will see that the laws of the Commonwealth are impartially enforced without fear or favor so that the prime objects of government are attained in securing to all the people of the State the rights of life, liberty, property and the pursuit of happiness."

As an official Judge Hager has, at every point, lented assistance to Governor Becklin and stood with him in the fight he has been waging for better observance of the laws of the Commonwealth. He has not hesitated to declare himself, in no uncertain terms, as favoring the temperance legislation enacted by Democratic legislators, and to say that he will, if elected Governor, use his every prerogative to enforce the laws upon the Statute books of Kentucky, and to enlarge the scope of the County Unit law. He is a fit and proper successor to the present Chief Executive of the Commonwealth, and since selecting him as their standard bearer in the campaign about to begin, the party leaders have the utmost confidence in his being able to carry the Democratic banner to another victory.

For Kentucky's Best Interests.

With promising enthusiasm, the permanent organization of the State Development Association was effected last week at the Commercial Club, in Louisville. Under authority of the Fifth State Development Convention, held last October at Winchester, a Nominating Committee composed of the Hon. William Lindsay, Capt. W. J. Stone and R. E. Hughes, named some time ago an Executive Committee, composed of fifteen members who are prominent in the commercial and professional life of their respective congressional districts.

Nine of them responded to the call, and E. J. McDermott, of Louisville, was elected president of the association. First, second and third vice presidents were named as follows:

J. W. Porter, of Lexington; Otho Fowler, of Madisonville, and J. C. Patrick, of Stanton.

James R. Keller was elected secretary, and A. Y. Foote, treasurer.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Hughes, who represented the Nominating Committee at the meeting.

He congratulated the committee-men upon the well-attended meeting, and dwelt upon the importance of the work about to be undertaken.

A statement of the work of the Fifth State Development Convention was made, and the work of the Nominating Committee was reviewed.

The executive committee from the Ninth District is H. Van Antwerp, of Farmers.

He is also Chairman of the Good Roads Development Committee.

Great satisfaction was felt at the good attendance on the meeting. But six members, Messrs. Joubert, Wheeler, Montgomery, Wallace, Craft and Pirle, were the absentees, and Messrs. Wallace and Joubert wrote, telling of business of pressing nature which prevented their attendance.

As soon as the constitution of the association had been read, as formed by the Fifth State Development Convention, Mr. Bowen nominated Mr. McDermott for president. Dr. Lovell seconded the nomination, and Mr. Hughes was instructed to cast one ballot.

Mr. McDermott took the chair, and Mr. Van Antwerp moved that the election of officers be undertaken at once.

Therefore, Messrs. Porter, Fowler, Patrick, Keller and Ford were elected by one ballot cast, as stated.

The election of officers finished, the Executive Committee took up with much interest the plan of organization. It developed on discussion that there must be many standing committees of great importance, but only twelve were finally considered.

These will be: Committee on State Convention, on Mineral Development, on Membership, on Legislation, on Educational Development, on Good Roads Development, on Forestry Development, on Immigration, on Manufacturing Development and on Financial Development.

It was decided to call by mail with all members of the Executive Committee before appointments as chairmen of all committees are made.

The wishes of committee-men will be considered in the making of further appointments as chairmen. The chairmen will select as many men from the membership of the association as they see fit to serve on the various committees. It was provided that the chairmanship of each standing committee of the association shall be vested in some member of the Executive Committee.

It was decided that the next convention be held some time next November, not less than ten days after the election. The setting of the date of the meeting will be later decided upon. It was also provided that all members of the General Assembly be made delegates to the convention, with special invitation to attend. The convention will be held in Louisville, according to the action of the last convention, which named that city as permanent headquarters.

By reason of the great distances which the majority of the members are compelled to travel to attend meetings of the Executive Committee, it was deemed best by the members assembled to appoint a Central Committee, whose acts shall have the sanction of the Executive Committee as a whole, and which shall meet once each month. This Central Committee comprises Messrs. McDermott, Joubert, Pirle, Gray and Bowen. All matters which shall require a meeting of the Executive Committee shall be held for the regular meeting of that body. It has not yet been decided when and how often the Executive Committee shall meet.

Within a few days the campaign for membership will be begun. The association has no source of supply save through membership, and the fee for a year will be but one dollar.

Prominent citizens will be appointed in each county to assist in the work of securing members, and it is believed that as soon as the work is well under way, many hundreds will take up the work of developing the resources of the State.

Two Halls.

In route to Louisa one day last week on a Big Sandy train was Joe and Dick Hall of the Beaver Creek country. With them was Dick Hall's little daughter, and they were going to Louisa to consult a surgeon in regard to the child's health.

The Hall brothers were participants in the famous Hall-Martin feud which took place on Beaver Creek a few years ago. A feud started over some land and Dick Hall was ambushed and severely wounded, and had a long fight with death, but his constitution won and he is a healthy specimen today. Although no deaths resulted from this feud, a number of the parties are crippled for life and nearly all of the Halls and Martins bear bullet scars. Both Joe and Dick are very peaceable men and are among the best citizens of Kentucky. Dick Hall is a doctor and then look out. The home of Joe is situated on a little knoll in the mountains of Kentucky and is surrounded by a 20-foot barbed wire fence which is surrounded by a six foot barbed wire fence.

Mrs. A. M. Hughes Entertained.

The beautiful home of Mrs. A. M. Hughes was thronged with ladies on last Thursday afternoon the occasion being the last of the Fall Club meetings for the summer. Seven tables were in requisition, and the festivities were prolonged until very late in the afternoon. There was much of things good to eat and drink and the occasion was in all respects a delightful one. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. George Carey, Philadelphia; Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Pikeville; Mrs. L. G. Gaird, Anderson; and Mr. J. F. Rodarmor, N. J.

OUR WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

The Point Pleasant, known as the Hess, collection has been delivered into the possession of the West Virginia archivist and historian, Professor Lewis, and has been shipped to the Jamestown exposition. It is the best and most complete of its kind in existence and will lend much to the attractiveness of the history exhibit of West Virginia, as the patriotic owner intends.

To represent her most important industry the state of West Virginia has erected at the Jamestown exposition one of the most original monuments ever seen in the world. It is constructed of coal shipped from the mines of the little Mountain State and consists of nineteen seams placed geologically, representative of the different strata which make West Virginia the second coal producing state in the Union.

This coal column occupies a commanding position along the water front near the West Virginia state building. It is 139 feet high, 16 feet square at the base and 13 feet square at the top. The work of engineering is said to have been one of the most difficult of the entire exposition. Nell Robinson, of Charleston, W. Va., was the contractor. Of the state's appropriation but $7,000 was provided for the coal monument, and as this feature developed into a structure costing nearly $15,000 the members of the commission acted as guarantors of the additional amount until it was assumed by the railroads.

Four hundred tons of coal were used in its construction. The entire weight of the tower is 700 tons. It is outlined with strings of electric lights. A gigantic searchlight crowns the apex, the whole forming a landmark by day and a beacon by night. The illumination is visible across the roads, up the bay and even far out at sea. This monument was dedicated July 2, West Virginia day.

Former Secretary John G. Carlisle has been in conference with Gov. Dawson, of West Virginia, Attorney General May and other officials of that State, upon the subject of the answer to be made to the United States Supreme Court in the matter of the debt settlement between Virginia and West Virginia. There is a question of some $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 in issue between the two Commonwealths. The Supreme Court, at its last sitting, overruled the demurrer of West Virginia in the case at bar, with privilege to make reply at the October term of court. The conference had to do with the preliminaries of the answer to be made, Washington being selected as the meeting place for the conference on account of this city's accessibility and other attractions. As the conference was entirely preliminary no statement of interest to the public was given out.

This case promises to be one of the celebrated law suits of the times. When West Virginia was separated from the Old Dominion, it is alleged that a provision was made that the new State should bear a proportion of the State debt. There is a squabble now over the settlement. The demurrer of West Virginia, recently overruled by the United States Supreme Court, was a very spirited document, in the course of which the suggestion was made that perhaps the Supreme Court could not make West Virginia pay anyhow. Whereupon the court mildly intimated that the question of its power to enforce a judgment would be treated when the occasion should arise. In the meanwhile, West Virginia will have opportunity to make another showing in court. It is said that if West Virginia should be cast for the proportion of the debt it would be a heavy obligation on the State. An interesting bit of gossip in this connection is the statement that some years ago a bill was offered in the Legislature providing for the funding of the outstanding liability at a low figure, but the bill was beaten and the man who offered it was defeated also. If the State is now held to accountability the proportion will be much larger.

GREAT OUTSIDE REMEDY.

Most pains are of local origin—a "crick" in the back, a twinge of rheumatism, a soreness all over arising from a cold—are all cured by outside applications. The quickest, safest and most certain method is Allcock's Plaster, known the world over as a "universal remedy for pain. They never fail, they act promptly, they are clean and cheap. You can go right ahead with your work while the healing process goes on. Sixty years' use has given them a great reputation.

FREE TRIP FOR 3 LADIES

To the Great Jamestown Exposition With all Expenses Paid by The News.

The BIG SANDY NEWS will pay the expenses of the three most popular ladies in Lawrence county on a week's trip to the wonderful Jamestown Exposition. The trip will be made in August, 1907, when the Exposition is well under way, when the weather is good, and when summer vacation is at hand. The three ladies will go with the Editor of THE NEWS and his wife as their special guests, and their every comfort and enjoyment will be carefully looked after. Remember, their every expense will be paid by the NEWS—railroad fare, sleeper and dining car fares, hotel bills, admissions to Exposition and concession shows, street car fares, lunch bills etc., etc.—everything from the time they leave Louisa until they return home safe and happy. Everything will be first-class. They will travel in Pullman cars, take their meals in elegant dining cars, and stop at the best hotels. It will be the trip of a lifetime!

Who may go on This Trip.

Every respectable lady in Lawrence county and part of Wayne is eligible to be our guests on this joyous outing, be she married or single. In order that there may be a fair chance for every part of the territory to be represented we have decided to divide it into districts as follows:

One Lady from District A:

Embracing three Voting Precincts, viz: Upper and Lower Louisa, and the districts of Wayne county, W. Va., in which Fort Gay is located and which are reached by the Fort Gay Rural Free Delivery.

One Lady from District B:

Embracing Voting Precincts, viz: Bear Creek, Falls of Blaine, East Fork, Dry Fork, Cat and Twin Branch Cherokee.

One Lady from District C:

Embracing Voting Precincts, viz: Upper Blaine, Sweetnam, Georges Creek, Dobbins, Peach Orchard and Rockcastle, Blaine and Little Blaine

The party elected from each district must live or be employed within its limits. That is the only requirement—and that is done for their own protection. Any person anywhere may vote for any candidate in any part of the county. Candidates may solicit votes anywhere they please. The votes can be mailed to the Contest Editor of the NEWS, or may be delivered in person at THE NEWS office. The voter may deposit his or her own ballot if preferred.

How the Selections Will be Made.

The ladies who will go on THE NEWS' free trip are to be chosen by the people. Everybody can vote—old patrons or new ones, rich or poor, young or old. Every dollar paid to THE NEWS on subscription, job printing or new advertising will entitle the payor to cast 100 votes. No payment of less than $1.00 will be entitled to any votes.

As a special recognition of new subscribers and advance subscriptions we make this allowance: Any one who pays IN ADVANCE one year's subscription to THE NEWS will be entitled to 125 votes; two years, 250 votes; three years, 400 votes; four years, 550 votes; five years, 700 votes; six years, 875 votes; seven years, 1050; eight years, 1225; nine years, 1400; ten years, 1575. Ten years is the limit for this proportionate increase on advance subscription to a single address.

Payments on old subscription accounts, 100 votes for each dollar. No person connected with the News will be allowed to take part, solicit votes or cast a ballot under any circumstances. The NEWS pledges its honor that the contest shall be fair and equal to all candidates. No favoritism will be shown, no assistance or suggestions will be given to one that are not given to all. It must and will be a square deal.

The Contest will Close August 14th, 1907.

NOW, PLEASE KEEP IN MIND:

That every girl or woman of good character in Lawrence county is eligible to be a candidate.
That a vote cast for a lady nominates her as a candidate in her district—nothing else to do.
That she will have to compete only with the candidates in her district, but may get votes anywhere.
That the lady receiving the highest vote in her district will go as the representative of that district.

That every Dollar paid to THE NEWS for subscription, job printing and new advertising obtained through the efforts of the candidates themselves is good for 100 votes.

That it is easy to win if you get busy early in the race, and get your friends interested.

That it will be the trip of a lifetime, and you will be the person at guest of the Editor.

The Race is on! Nominate Your Favorite To-Day.

Address all Communications to, or call to see.

$100 REWARD, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. S DIVINE POTTER

by Rev. F. F. Shannon.

Rev. Frederick F. Shannon, of Louisa, but now pastor of St. E. Church, Brooklyn, has for the fourth year of his pastorate, on a few Sundays ago, on occasion he took for his subject, "The Soul's Divine Potter." The text was from Jeremiah "Arise, and go down to the house, and there I will cause to hear my words." Mr. Shannon personas are always illustrated up to life. Arguing his weak-ness in metaphysics, darkens coun-til words. Revealing his wis-dom speaks through objects fa-to all. Man would analyze the of the ill. But God loves the much to see his beauty tar-ly. Truly, this is God's speech: "The ill of the field, how

But while burrowing about the how, God went to behold the growth of God prefers to teach in ob-jects, because he knows the rim of brains is not large enough to subjective to any great ex-perience. That is why he sent Jeremiah in the potter's house. There well-defined analogy in the house potter and the house of man's God seems to say to the proph-et: Watch the potter work, and you

Me work. Look at the pot-ter, for that is what I made of. Consider the potter's wheel as he pots his clay upon the wheel. We do it. Examine his work. I have them strewn on the earth. Above all, be sure him remake his marred ves-sel that is what I design. Is And Jeremiah had his ser-vice. It is one of the best he ever because it came from the lips of it is worth our while, therefore, under what the prophet saw and in the house of the potter as you know, is one of the ancient arts. There is a cer-tain about it which has en-tered into all civilized nations. Allusions to it are found in poetry. Homer compares the of a dance to the measured of the potter's wheel. With the on of the cave-dwellers of the period, the art of pottery is have been practiced by all prehistoric races. Nor is this strange when we are told on authority that "no process in handicraft is more beautiful than of a potter molding a vessel on the wheel." Little wonder, therefore, Jeremiah forgets to scold on his in the potter's house. It caused him to remember that God is not a of men's lives, but that He is a divine artist touching them with the grace of imperishable beauty. Mother's cradle song was ever than these words: "O house of Israel, cannot I do with you as a potter?" saith the Lord. "Behold the clay in the potter's hand, so in mine hand, O house of think the first thing that attract-ed the prophet's attention was the malleable clay. It was not yet to be fashioned into some shape. The hand of the potter touched it but slightly. And that, as he looked, Jeremiah dis-covered that it was clay of an ordi-nary character. Authorities tell us the potter never sees his clay on rich shades of silver, or red, or brown, or yellow, until the burning. These colors come in after the burning. The clay is malleable after the burning. The vase is possible after the burning.

Jeremiah's sermon came to life. After the burning, we a purity that sees God. After burning, we have a wisdom that God. After the burning, our is edified into strength and up on God. After the burning, faith is no longer a flickering light, but an eye set in the soul which we behold the face of God. If the burning hurts, as it al-ways does, it is only a prophecy of strength which will be ushered in the life. When the little girl her music teacher that it hurt fingers to practice on the piano, teacher answered: "I know it, but it strengthens them." Then the child asked the phi-lanthropist the ages into her reply: "It seems that everything strengthens hurts."

widely-ling and universal is this life. Where did the bravest purest women you know get their characters? Did you that look which, as you would add dignity to an an-gel? Already God has written after the burning. Where he get his eloquence, and Stradivari his violins, and Titian his color, and Angelo his marbles, and Mozart his music, and Chatterton his poetry, and Falstaff his enamel, and Jeremiah his sermon? They got them where the clay gets its glory and its shimmer—after the burning!

But in his visit Jeremiah saw more than the unmolded clay—he saw the potter working at his art. "He wrought a work on the wheels." The prophet saw the malleable clay taking form. As the potter worked, he observed that there was a definite plan for each vessel. Some were large and some were small; some were beautiful and some were not; some bore one color and some another. But he noticed that in this formative, molding process there was an intelligent purpose in the mind of the potter. And as the wheels went spinning round, it was the potter's desire to get that purpose wrought into the clay. So, also, God wants our lives to be an expression of His thought. After all, is not every creature a thought of God, and is there not a divine plan back of every life? What would you think of a potter who would hold his vessel to the wheels, having no intel-ligent design for it? Then do you tell me that the infinite, all-loving God put human clay upon the wheel-ing wheels of life with no governing purpose, no definite plan? Let men believe such a thing and they could say: "Fatalism has isolated a fool to the throne of the universe." With such a creed men might well think that God is a being tossing suns and planets in reckless desperation over the fields of space, gazing over the prospect of a universal calamity, when He would have the supreme satisfac-tion of attending the funerals of all worlds!

But we rest in the high consolation that Christ unveiled no such a God. If there is design for the ill, and design for the good, and design for the dew, and design for the star, surely there must be design for you and me. If the sparrow can twitter, "I am a thought of God," if the rolling spheres can strike off majes-tic harmonies as they sing, "The hand that made us is divine," then may not we, with infinitely greater reason, look up through Jesus Christ to ward that throne "cushioned in splen-dor behind the stars," and say to that loving Father who sits upon it, "We are the clay, and Thou our pot-ter, and we all are the work of Thy hand."

And yet, because the potter has design for the clay as he holds it to the wheels does not argue that the clay understands that design. What if the clay could hear as the potter says: "It is impossible for you to know what a beautiful vase I will make of you. I know you think this turning and spinning of the wheels are all nonsense. But just be patient and trust the skill of my hand, and when you are finished men will come from afar and carry you away to adorn some palace." And what if the clay should answer: "No, potter, I won't trust you, because I can't understand you. I know you can't make a beautiful vase out of such material as I am. Let me alone, pot-ter; I am satisfied." I think we would agree that such clay ought to be given the satisfaction of remain-ing common, ordinary mud! But the potter loves his clay too much to be thwarted in his purpose. That fine old Flemish ware, that Persian pipe, that Rhodian jug, that Roman cup, that Italian majolica, that French pottery must gladden the world with its beauty and its service. And so the fires blister, and the wheels go round, and after awhile, in some Louvre or British Museum, a glorious vase looks down from its pedestal as if to say: "See what the potter has done with me. I was once just com-mon clay, and didn't want to be made beautiful. But the potter loved me, too much to heed my foolish protest, and fashioned my ugliness into this dream of beauty!"

And that, it seems to me, is a par-able of our own poor lives. Because we cannot understand the touch of the Master's hand; because we fall, in our blindness, to glimpse the "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory," because we fail to read the intelligent design back of our lives, we oftentimes grow rebellious and say, "God is not in his heaven, nor is all right with the world." Then is it good for us to know of the patient endurance, the mother love, the holy aspiration of this heroine who is a student in the great industrial schools of our city. Before giving her story as it was given to me by one of the Board of Examiners, and an honored member of this church, may I pause to say that no quainter band of women can be found on earth than are at the head of these schools, which are doing so much to offer a chance to the boys and girls who never had a chance. These high-souled women are the chief adorn-ment of our city. They are the arch-angels of the Brooklyn which is to be; for back of these industrial schools is the culture, capacity and consecra-tion of our finest womanhood.

The story is this: Last January a woman of 50 years old went to a teacher in School No. 2, and with tears in her eyes begged permission to sit down with the little ones 5 to 6 years old, that she might learn to read and write. She explained that she had two boys in the West, and desired to learn her letters that she might be able to communicate with them. Her daughter had done this for her, but three years ago the daughter died, and now the hungry-hearted mother was willing to make any sacrifice to keep in touch with her sons. So she entered school with-out telling any one, even her hus-band. Four weeks from the day she entered she was able to read through the primer, first reader, and almost through the second. Now she can write so any one can easily read every word. She learns ten new words at home every day, and always knows her lesson perfectly. She has learned to begin and end a letter, and it will not be long before she can write a love letter—a genuine mother-love letter—to her boys. "Through the goodness of my friend, I have in my possession a yellow sheet of paper containing one of her writing exercises. Reading between the lines, there is something inex-pressibly touching about it. The words are such as may be found in the copy book of any schoolboy, but the mother, with her hard hands and tender heart, as she copied the words laughed herself writing a letter to one of her sons. After writing her address and the date, this imaginary epistle, brimming with a real love, reads: "My dear son Hugh:

Be the matter what it may, Always speak the truth. If at work or if at play, Always speak the truth. Surely there is no ordinary clay in this vessel! She may not be able to understand the plan of her soul's Divine Potter, but a brave trust and a high hope reside in the center of her being. By the light of her soul she follows on to overtake that glory, the very character of God wrought to a human life, which awaits the faithful unto death, who are always and evermore the faithful in life. Consider, finally, what the prophet heard in the house of the potter. "Arise, and go down to the potter's house, and there I will cause thee to hear my words." It is as if the Di-vine Potter had said: "There, amid the burning clay and whirling wheels, there, where the shapeless clay takes form; there, where the form grows into a thing of beauty, I will cause thee to hear my words." Here is the mystery and glory of it all, my friends. The clay hears the call of the potter to become a vase and at once begins to rise out of unshapeli-ness into beauty. And the soul hears the voice of its Potter, too, and thence begins the upward climb. The ascent is long and slow, the pathway is oftentimes studded with thorns, but away up beyond the mists and shadows the summit peaks are bathed in splendor. From that far height the latter's voice sends down the call: "O, Soul, meet me here, meet me here!" And the soul, with its vision of white thrilling it through and through, pushes onward and upward to that fearless city of the cloudless land!

I know that to some of us life seems one prolonged journey to the potter's house, where we touch the spinning wheels of mystery and feel the blistering fires of pain. But never mind, brethren, the universe itself is laboring to build a city worthy to be your home. According to Saint John, that city is far beyond the dimpled smile stealing over a babe's face in sleep. In his vision the city seemed to be, as airy as a sunbeam and as solid as a marble mountain. For though he beheld it coming down out of heaven from God, the wall of the city had twelve foundations and on them twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. It seemed as if God had swept the worlds for jewels with which to adorn the founda-tions of that wall. The first founda-tion was jasper, and the second saph-ire, and the third chalcidony, and the fourth emerald, and the fifth sardonyx, and the sixth sardius, and the seventh chrysolite, and the eighth beryl, and the ninth topaz, and the tenth chrysoprase, and the eleventh jacinth, and the twelfth amethyst. I have often wondered why the twelve gates were twelve pearls, but that was because I overlooked the mat-terial in the foundations of the wall. Nothing but gates of pearl, swinging on hinges of music would be appro-priate in a wall with such jeweled foundations. And then, after passing through such gates swinging to and fro in such a wall, nothing but streets of pure gold, as transparent as glass, could answer the demands of feet which had followed the Son of God on earth, and who is now the light and glory of the holy city. And I fancy that if those feet are weary and travel-stained, one silver wave from the crystal river, proceeding out of the throne of God and the Lamb, will make them leap and thrill with immortal vigor forever.

But grander than the architecture, and next to the Lamb himself, I think the most majestic scene in John's vision of the City is the countless throng of the kings and queens of pain. Grandeur than the four angels holding the four winds of the earth; more commanding than that mighty angel ascending out of the sunrise, having in his hand the seal of the living God; more magnificent than splendored foundations and fasper walls and gates of pearl and streets of gold, is that great multitude which no man could number, standing be-fore the throne and before the Lamb, saying: "Salvation unto our God which sitteth on the throne, and unto the Lamb!" When one of the elders asked, "These which are arrayed in the white robes, who are they, and whence came they?" John answered, "My lord, thou knowest." And the elder himself made reply: "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." The pre-vailing color in the City of God is pure white, and the whitest whiteness is wrought in Calvary's crimson stream. O, let us win the white!

If It's Neuralgia

and those sharp, shooting, agonizing pains drive you almost crazy, take Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and get relief. They drive out the pain by their soothing effect upon the nerves. When taken as directed they are harmless, and leave no bad after-effects. That's the reason they are so popular with all who use them. Your druggist can tell you what others in your locality think of them.

"I do positively think that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are the best medicine ever put upon the market. I find them so restful and soothing, and without any bad after-effects. I have suffered with neuralgia so that my system would just ache and quiver, and I cannot take opiates, but I can take these tablets, and they always relieve me. No one that suffers with neuralgia need fear to take them as I know they will not form a habit, for if there was any opiate in them I could not take them. Just one to the morning when I feel bad, and I can do my work all day."

A requisition was not applied for by the authorities for the return of Paul Wellman to Catlettsburg from W Virginia, and he was released by the Huntington authorities from custody today. It is thought, however, that during the special term of Circuit Court to be held there during the month of August, he will return to prosecute a suit against the C.&O. for false imprisonment. Wellman claims that officials of the C.&O. accused him of throwing rock's into passenger car windows at Kenova and had him taken from Kentucky to Virginia where he was lodged in Wayne county jail for three months. This case has been set for the special term of Circuit court to be held in August and it is supposed that Wellman will return then of his own accord to take up the suit.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Maysville, Ky., June 27.—John Johnson, aged sixty-four years, died at his home near here this morning after a long illness. He was father of Miss Johnson for one term, being the only Republican ever elected in that office here.

Grayson, Ky., June 28.—Commonwealth's Attorney John Wagoner, returned from West Liberty this morning, where he has been attending the Morgan Circuit Court. He reports that smallpox is epidemic in the county and is causing much alarm.

A special from Mayking, Ky., says in a brawl between the Meadows and Osborne factions on the Dickerson county border, Jesse Meadows was killed out light and Wilson Osborne was fatally wounded and will not survive the day. Trouble had been growing for some time, but this was the first outbreak.

Sargent, Ky., June 28.—The Letcher County Home Telephone Co., has been organized here by W. B. Webb and J. E. Vanders, with a capital of $10,000. They will build a local phone line from Whitesburg via Grimes Mayking, Sargent, Craftsville and Milestone, to the Boone's fork section, fifteen miles, with several short line branches. Construction work is to begin at once. The lines are to be completed by September 1.

Owingsville, Ky., June 29.—From their den in a large hollow tree, on Main street, to-day, a mob of 50 persons chased two monster snakes and captured one of them. The monster was so ferocious that it with difficulty he was killed. He measured over 7 feet in length. His mate escaped.

The tree had been felled, and the snakes coiled around each other, were ready for a fight, but, with the aid of a net, one of them was captured. They had been the terror of the city for years.

Flem Jarvis and J. A. Porter, Esq., "swapped" farms, household goods, crops, chickens, and everything except horses, cows, hogs, and sewing machines, and wearing apparel. Each went to the other's home and began business. These two farms lay on Cure Hill. It was surely a novel way to do business and each finally must have experienced a sensation in using the other's cookstove, dishes, carpets, window curtains and others household furniture.

Grayson, Ky., July 2.—John Maggard, aged thirty-five, a prominent farmer and merchant of Carter Caves, while fishing with a gun on Tigart river, fell over the bank and discharged his gun, the charge striking him in the abdomen, causing his death today.

The Administrator of the late A. H. Cole has filed suit in the Greenup Circuit Court against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company and others for his death. Judge Cole was thrown from the steps of the evening accommodation train in Maysville last January and received injuries from which he died. He had entered the car to assist his daughter with her baggage and to find her a seat. Judgment is asked in the sum of $25,000.

In a fatal shooting affray, John Stuart shot five times at Willie Perry with a thirty-eight caliber pistol. Two of the shots hit Perry, one of them going through his shoulder and the other passing through his back. The shooting occurred on the railroad road between Dan Sulphur and Hartsburgville shortly after mid night. Both men are employed on a C. & O. construction crew and had been drinking. There is much talk of having been in the way of the men for some time and Stuart is said to have threatened to take the life of Perry. The two men are the sons of Hartsburgville and had a quarrel over a girl. Perry walked in from a nearby report, and Stuart, after seeing the report, fired a shot which struck Perry in the back of the head, killing him.

Charles Cole, a student at a law school, and a student at the University of Kentucky, who says he was the father of a girl, heard the girl's name, and, having information in the local courts, charged with the criminal case of Miss Nellie Scott, the eighteen year old daughter of J. E. Scott, the Greenup County justice of the peace. The girl went to the county and Haven took her to the county, where she witnessed the performance. She fell into conversation with Cole, who thought a romance was in the show and was acting as a mother to her. She permitted him to come to her home after the show in company of Miss Bluma Carol, who was with her at the time. After leaving Miss Carol at her door they sat down on the outside of the church steps, where they remained for some time, and afterwards took a walk to Central Park, where they sat in a swing until very late. When they returned home, the girl alleged the assault was committed.

By an examining court line was cleared of the charge.

Francis Fannin shot and killed John Bryant at Tripletts crossing on the A. T. & I. Ry. about 4 miles back of Ashland shortly after six o'clock last Friday morning. Fannin fired three shots with a revolver the third one of which took effect squarely between the eyes in Bryant's forehead, and he died instantly. Fannin left the scene of the shooting immediately in company with his brother, going in the direction of E. K. Junction and they have not yet been captured. Sheriff Veigler and a number of special deputies are searching the country for them.

Bryant works at night at the Ashland steel mill and was returning to his home, near Summit station after the night's work. He was in a buggy with his son, Dan, and according to the story of a Mr. Martin, who lives at Bryant's, was waylaid by two of the Fannins, Francis and a younger brother named Dan. The tragedy was brought about over the fact that about two weeks ago Dan Bryant had whipped Dan Fannin. Francis Fannin undertook to get revenge on Dan Bryant and when he met him with his father he began shooting at him. John Bryant, the father then intervened when Fannin turned on him and shot at him three times. At the third shot Bryant fell and Fannin made hasty flight.

J. E. Fannin, father of Francis Fannin, the alleged murderer, was at one time candidate for the Senate from Elbert county, opposing Dr. M. G. Watson, who defeated him by a small majority. It is owing to the wide influence of the Fannins in that section that the candidate will owe his escape, and reaching there.
